

Friends,

As we approach the end of week seven of shelter-in-place confinement in Silicon Valley and San Francisco, we are grateful for the many friends, clients and supporters that are leaning in to help each other. Let's face it: we are living through some tumultuous times, and everyone can use some support.

As a small contribution to the tech, healthcare and clean energy entrepreneurial ecosystem, we have put together some resources we hope you find useful. If there is specific content that you would like us to include in future newsletters or webinars, please let us know. If the content is not likely to be relevant in the future, please accept our apologies and click unsubscribe at the bottom of the email.

As always, we are available to assist with business, legal and transactional matters, foster new connections and find other ways to help in any way we can.
